SPONSORSHIP GUIDE

ACC Latin America Conference 2017

The American College of Cardiology is pleased to invite you to support the expansion of the ACC's regional conference initiative for 2017-- the ACC Latin America Conference, June 22-24, 2017, Mexico City, Mexico. This conference is the second ever regional ACC conference in partnership with ACC International Chapters and presents a unique opportunity to reach a targeted group of 500-1000 cardiovascular professionals from around the Latin American Countries in an intimate setting.

The two and one half day conference will feature locally relevant interactive education and clinical decision making skills practice designed to best meet the real world professional needs of Latin American cardiologists. Exceptional educational content designed by conference co-chairs Erick Alexanderson, MD, FACC and Hector Michelena, MD, FACC, along with other top leaders in the field makes this one of the most sought after conferences in cardiology.

Multiple opportunities exist to support the ACC Latin America Conference 2017 through sponsorships and exhibitor presence. For sponsors, visibility and access to conference attendees will gain recognition of your company as a forward thinking organization interested in perfecting the cardiovascular practice. For exhibitors, attendee flow into the exhibit hall will be high due to dedicated exhibit times and co-location with a late breaking poster session in the exhibit hall.

ACC considers supporters like you to be an important part of this conference, providing our attendees the opportunity to gather useful information about your products and services. Your participation will further enhance attendees' knowledge and their overall conference experience!

According to a recent membership survey, over 30 percent of ACC members are directly responsible for purchasing products and services for their institutions; and nearly 50 percent of our members participate in the decision-making process. Please join us for this exceptional opportunity in the heart of Mexico City.
