

Submission Policies and Procedures

Thank you for your interest in submitting an abstract or case to ACC Latin America 2026. Please read the following instructions carefully.

GENERAL INFORMATION

- Abstracts and cases are not eligible for consideration if they have been presented at any major conference or published previously (whether in print or electronically).
- All abstract and case submissions must be in English. If your submission is accepted for presentation, your presentation materials must also be in English, but you may speak in the language you are most comfortable with.
- Investigators do not need to be ACC members to participate.
- Only non-US citizens who are under 40 years old and currently reside in the Latin America region are eligible to win the ACC Travel Award to ACC.27-WCC. See abstract submission instructions for more details.
- General Information subject to change due to circumstances beyond the ACC's control.

POLICIES

- Clarity of expression will be considered in the review process. The overall quality of language used should ensure comprehension by the reader. Authors may use a maximum of five unique abbreviations in the body of the submission. Abbreviations should be placed in parentheses after the full word the first time it appears.
- Any human experimentation must conform to the principles of the Declaration of Helsinki of the World Medical Association. If such experimentation is undertaken, the presenting author must be able to provide copies of informed consent signed by human participants.
- The Planning Group endorses the position of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS) in requiring assurances of the responsible use of animals in research. All submissions for consideration must be in compliance with these guidelines.
- On behalf of all co-authors, the submitting author/investigator agrees that the submission of an abstract/case constitutes the submitting author/investigator and all co-authors' agreement to assign and transfer to the American College of Cardiology (ACC) all rights, title, and interest, including copyright and all rights subsumed thereunder, in and to the abstract/case and all material contained therein if the abstract/case is accepted. Except as otherwise set forth herein, the ACC, as holder of the copyright on the accepted abstract/case, reserves all rights of reproduction, distribution, performance, display, and the right to create derivative works in both print and digital formats.
- All abstracts/cases submitted in connection with ACC Latin America 2026 will be disclosed to members of the peer review selection committee, as well as to ACC employees and contractors as necessary.
- ACC will undertake all reasonable efforts to maintain the confidentiality of abstracts/cases submitted but cannot guarantee the confidentiality of such materials.
- Each presenting author will be asked to comply with the ACC Disclosure Policy. Indication of the relationship and the associated commercial entity is required for each presenting author.
- Primary responsibility for compliance with any disclosure or nondisclosure requirements resides solely with researchers and/or research sponsors.