

BOOST YOUR CAREER: DISCOVER THE ACC'S AWARDS OFFERINGS

The ACC is proud to celebrate and encourage those among us who are changing the future of cardiology by giving them the platform to share their research and accomplishments with the global community. The Douglas P. Zipes Distinguished Young Scientist Award, International Service Distinguished Award, and the newly established Hani Najm Global Scholar Award provide the opportunity to encourage cardiologists at all stages to continue to transform cardiovascular care and improve heart health.

DOUGLAS P. ZIPES DISTINGUISHED YOUNG SCIENTIST AWARD

The Douglas P. Zipes Distinguished Young Scientist Award recognizes a young physician scientist who has contributed to the field of cardiovascular disease and has amassed an impressive body of scientific research in either basic or clinical domains. The award provides the winner with the opportunity to present their breakthrough research on a global stage at ACC.22 in Washington, DC and establishes them as one-to-watch in the cardiovascular community.

NOMINATIONS NOW DUE AUGUST 6, 2021

INTERNATIONAL SERVICE DISTINGUISHED AWARD

The International Service Award honors an FACC who has significantly enhanced cardiovascular care throughout the world and through their service, has made outstanding contributions to cardiovascular medicine and science. As part of the ACC's Distinguished Awards program, the awards recognize those who demonstrate leadership, promote the advancement of science and innovation, and are at the pinnacle of their careers.

NOMINATIONS DUE SEPTEMBER 20, 2021

NEW! HANI NAJM GLOBAL SCHOLAR AWARD

The Hani Najm Global Scholar Award aims to provide ACC Early Career cardiologists in the Middle East or North African regions with the opportunity to elevate their training by participating in a four week Observership Program in the United States and attend ACC.22 in Washington, DC. The program offers awardees the opportunity to shadow practicing cardiologists and health professional at a US hospital, watch procedures and surgeries first-hand, attend patient rounds, and teach conferences.
